FetchLocalCustomers Attention Heat Map Example

Here is an analysis of our original site design. Not bad, but we knew we could do better. If you look closely you'll notice that the current site design has been tweaked a little bit based upon this attention heat map.

Our service uses advanced artificial intelligence algorithms to simulate human visual processing and attention. The software instantly creates an "attention heatmap" of your Web page that predicts where someone would look during the first few seconds of their visit.

